Dr. Jeff Hyde

Hyde became director of the Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service Sept. 1, 2019. As director of the largest Extension agency in the nation, Hyde oversees agency programming in Agriculture and Natural Resources, Family and Community Health, 4-H and Youth Development, and Community Economic Development. Previously, he was acting as associate dean and director of Penn State Extension. Hyde earned his doctoral and master’s degrees in agricultural economics from Purdue University and bachelor’s degree in economics from Frostburg State University. He also earned an associate degree in business administration from Allegany Community College.

> contact: Rosemary Schoenfeld assistant to the agency director rosemary.schoenfeld@ag.tamu.edu or 979-862-3932

Dr. Angela Burkham

Burkham is the executive associate director for AgriLife Extension. She oversees operations and administrative, budget and human resources. Burkham earned her bachelor’s degree in home economics from Texas Tech University, master’s degree in agricultural education from Texas Tech, and doctorate in agricultural education and communications from Texas A&M University.

> contact: Kelli Isaacks assistant to the executive associate director kelli.isaacks@ag.tamu.edu or 979-862-1529

Dr. Jeff Ripley

Ripley is the associate director for county operations, providing oversight for county agents, programming, and fiscal operations. He earned a bachelor’s degree in agribusiness from Tarleton State University, master’s degree in agricultural education from Texas State University and doctorate in agricultural education from Texas A&M University.

> contact: Marilyn Frenzel
   assistant to the associate director marilyn.frenzel@ag.tamu.edu or 979-845-7896

Dr. Dan Hale

Hale is the associate director for Agriculture and Natural Resources. He oversees programming in agriculture and natural resources, and works closely with commodity groups across Texas. Hale earned bachelor’s and master’s degrees in animal science from Kansas State University and a doctorate in food, nutrition and institutional sciences from Oklahoma State University.

> contact: Rebekah See-Hruska assistant to the associate director rebekah.see@ag.tamu.edu or 979-845-7967
Dr. Courtney Dodd

Dodd is the associate director for health, families and youth programs. She oversees statewide programs in health and nutrition as well as programs for youth. Dodd earned a bachelor’s degree in family and consumer sciences from Southwest Texas State University as well as a master’s in health education and a doctorate in agricultural leadership, education and communications from Texas A&M University.

> contact: Deborah Sutherland
assistant to the associate director dsutherland@tamu.edu or 979-845-7907

Blair Fannin

Fannin is the associate director for communications with the Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service. He oversees marketing and communications for the agency statewide. He earned a bachelor’s degree in journalism from Sam Houston State University.

> contact: Sylvia Ware
assistant to the associate director sylavia.ware@ag.tamu.edu or 979-845-4514

Caitlyn Calvert

Calvert is the assistant vice chancellor for digital learning, providing oversight for digital education strategy including course development and publications. Calvert earned her bachelor’s degree in agricultural communications and journalism, and a master’s degree in agricultural development with an emphasis on eLearning and professional development, both from Texas A&M University.

> contact: Caitlyn Calvert Assistant Vice Chancellor for Digital Learning caitlyn.calvert@ag.tamu.edu or 979-458-5718

Donna Alexander

Alexander is the chief financial officer with the Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service. She oversees all financial operations of the agency related to budget, annual financial reporting and fiscal management. Alexander earned her bachelor’s degree in agricultural economics.

> contact: Gina South
executive assistant gina.south@ag.tamu.edu or 979-845-7879